

Abstract of the Disclosure

5       A kit for facilitating home preservation of archival articles is provided. It comprises a box constructed of material suitable for preserving archival material such as twin-walled corrugated plastic and a flexible, opaque cover sized to removably enclose the box which protects the contents from light and dust and provides an attractive archival storage container. A liner may be provided for textile articles, or various enclosures for other types of archival materials.